Crackpot carpet salesman Ahmed Yacoubi once lured hordes of tourists into his shop by lounging in the doorway — with a killer cobra in his mouth and king-size scorpions crawling across his face!

But Ahmed's kooky come-on backfired the day the scorpions revolted — and stung the dingbat dealer to death.

"Poor Ahmed thought those things were harmless and he was invincible," his heartsick sister Habiba told reporters in Marrakech, Morocco.

"But they turned out to be Sahara Desert scorpions, and they're about the deadliest creatures on earth."

The shifty businessman owned a seedy little store that sold cheapo carpets to unsuspecting tourists — passing the sleazy floor coverings off as priceless antiques.

"Truthfully, he bought junk rugs from the carpet factory by the water and labeled them as prized Persian masterpieces," said his embarrassed brother Salih. "It was all a con game designed to fleece stupid foreigners out of their money."

And business had really been booming since the pea-brained peddler brought a 6-foot cobra and three sinister-looking scorpions into his act.

"Ahmed sat there hour after hour with that snake around his neck and those scorpions crawling on his face, and people just had to stop and look," said grieving Habiba.

"Even that was a con, though, because that snake didn't have any fangs and those scorpions didn't have any stingers.

"But they got folks into the shop, and Ahmed always sold them something. He was making money hand over fist."

Then fate reared its ugly head when some lowlife swiped Ahmed's scorpion pals and slipped away into the night.

"All of a sudden he didn't have anything scary to crawl around on his face, and he was absolutely frantic," said sad-eyed Salih. "He was afraid that without scorpions his business

Woman falls down garbage chute looking for false teeth

By JACK ALEXANDER
Staff writer

Stunned Sandy Lifsey lost her balance and her dignity when she tumbled headfirst down a garbage chute — looking for her false teeth.

"It was terrible . . . just terrible. My face was buried in all that filth," said Sandy, who had to be rescued by the Baltimore, Md., fire department.

Sandy's humiliating day began when she dumped a load of trash down the chute from her 11th-floor apartment.

"I had my upper plate in my hand at the time and accidentally dropped it into the chute along with the trash," she said.

Frantic Sandy looked in the chute and saw other trash piled all the way up to the ninth floor.

"She went down to the ninth floor, peeked into the chute, lost her balance and fell in," Fire Captain Pat Flynn said.

Several tenants heard her screaming for help and called 911. Before firemen arrived, people unknowingly dumped more trash on top of her. "We dropped a rope down and hauled her up. She was covered with slop and garbage, but not injured," said Capt. Flynn.

The 29-year-old woman, who lost her teeth in an auto accident, said she didn't find her elusive choppers. A kindhearted dentist is replacing them free of charge.

If the chute hadn't been filled with trash, Sandy would have fallen headfirst nine floors into a trash compacter.

"She would have lost her dentures and her life," said Capt. Flynn.

Mom's 13 puppies make her

Thirteen lovable Doberman puppies are living proof that their mom, Jody, is a true champion. Above, the little rascals put their best paws forward as they pose for a group shot. At right, Jody gets a hug from her happy owner, Rita Carlisle of West Bridgeford, England. "These frisky pups can be little terrors. Still they're adorable and I can't help myself. I love every one of them," says Rita. "Just watching them run around the house is an adventure!" Rita has been breeding dogs for more than five years but she says none of her other Dobermans ever produced more than nine pups. And these little guys can bring in big bucks. At $350 apiece, Jody's litter will earn Rita $4,550!

would fall off, so he was very excited the next day when he found a man who'd trade him three scorpions for three of his tacky rugs.

"I'm quite sure my brother thought he was getting three harmless little things like the kind he had before — but he was in for a very rude shock."

The next morning, as unsuspecting Ahmed settled back in the doorway with those new scorpions skittering across his face, the killer critters attacked — shooting Yacoubi full of venom.

"It was like some kind of horror movie," said shook-up shop assistant Abdel Jamai. "Ahmed was just sitting there when all of a sudden he started clutching at his face and let out a scream that shot right through me.

"I ran over and I could see his face was all puffed up and twisted, like someone had beat him with a club. By the time the ambulance took him away, he was shaking so bad they couldn't keep him still."

The hapless huckster died at a nearby hospital. "My brother had been swindling people all his life," said heartbroken Habiba. "Finally it all caught up with Ahmed."

SPACE ALIEN

By NICK MANN
Special to The NEWS

The crew of the space shuttle Atlantis rescued a space alien from a crippled starship and brought it back to Earth during their mission in August and we've got the pictures to prove it!

Equally amazing, the rescued extraterrestrial is a dead ringer for an alien that was captured in Virginia and met with President George Bush earlier this year — leading to speculation that the rescued alien came to Earth to pick up the captured alien and take it back home.

NASA and the White House have thrown a Kremlin-like shroud of secrecy over the rescue mission and actually deny that any such operation ever took place.

But startling photographs obtained by UFO researcher Nathaniel Dean clearly show the creature leaving the shuttle behind Mission Commander John Blaha after the spacecraft landed at Kennedy Space Center on August 11.

Oddly enough, photos released by NASA and published in newspapers around the world show Blaha and his three-man, one-woman crew leaving the spacecraft minus the alien, which was apparently painted out.

"NASA doesn't want us to know what really happened on the Atlantis mission and the fact that the alien doesn't appear in their 'official' pictures proves it," said Dean, who blew the lid off the capture of the first alien on September 28, 1990, and later revealed that it met with President Bush at Camp David on April 14, 1991.

"The United States government is clearly riding a wave of good fortune that is speeding contact and possibly even cooperation and trade agreements with an extraterrestrial civilization," he added.

"You'd need a bank of super computers to calculate the odds against capturing and rescuing a pair of space aliens from the same planet in the span of 11 months.

"But that's exactly what happened and the big question now is where do we go from here?"

Details of the rescue are sketchy but Dean's sources maintain that it occurred

WHERE'S the alien? NASA distributed this crudely retouched photo in an effort to keep their find secret.

Hero astronauts respond to crippled starship's S.O.S.!

SPACE shuttle Atlantis lands at the Kennedy Space Center with the rescued alien onboard.

FIRST alien meets President Bush! This incredible picture appeared in the April 14 edition of The NEWS, showing the first alien visitor strolling with the President. White House officials will neither confirm nor deny the encounter.

SHOCKING photo of first space alien's capture appeared in the October 30, 1990, edition of The NEWS. Scientists believe the rescued alien came from the same planet as this one.

after the shuttle crew picked up the alien's distress call while orbiting Earth on August 8.

The astronauts were apparently authorized to attempt a docking with the alien's bus-sized, bullet-shaped craft.

But Dean's sources say the creature used an unknown and advanced technology to beam itself directly into the shuttle cabin, eliminating the need for such a risky and untested procedure.

"My sources assure me that the shuttle was never in danger and that the rescue proceeded without a hitch," said the Washington-based researcher.

"Once the alien was aboard it was a simple matter to bring it the shuttle astronauts. From what I understand it didn't even need a pressure suit or oxygen at any time during the flight."

and held for observation at Kennedy Space Center but has since been moved to an undisclosed location, said Dean.

It is not yet known if the its comrade, which escaped CIA custody and has been at large since.

"NASA is already planning to help the alien or aliens get back to their ship, which is still orbiting Earth, so that repairs can be made," said Dean.

"From what I understand the spacecraft was crippled by a fuel delivery problem that can likely be repaired with

The consequences of that incredible rescue remain to be seen, of course, but it is my belief that it will definitely work in our favor.

"I seriously doubt that we won any friends on the aliens' home planet when we captured the first one.

"But it seems likely that the rescue will put us on their good side," Dean said.

$2M winner dumps wife & quits job

— then learns sweepstakes was a hoax!

SAD SACK Stanley Lane

By JOE BERGER/Staff writer

Mousy mechanic Stanley Lane was so tickled to learn he'd won a whopping $2 million that he walked out on his whiny wife, told his windbag boss to drop dead and bought a one-way ticket to Bermuda.

Then stunned Stanley discovered to his horror that the big win was nothing but a cruel hoax — that he hadn't won a dime!

"I thought my life was rotten before, but now I've really got nothing — no job, no home, no money, zilch," groaned the jolted grease monkey.

"My wife won't let me go home because I called her a bloated old battle-ax. And my boss won't give me my job back because I told him he wasn't fit to carry my wrenches.

"Now I'm sleeping on a park bench, wishing I'd kept my big mouth shut."

Sad sack Stanley's tale of woe began when two cold-hearted co-workers sent an official-looking letter to his San Francisco apartment informing him he'd won $2 million in a soap company sweepstakes.

"He was always entering those dumb contests, even on his lunch break, so we just decided to shake him up a little," said pitiless prankster Andy Grube. "We even included an L.A. number where he could call to verify that he'd won. When he phoned, my sister-in-law answered and confirmed he was the $2 million winner, and he screamed so loud he almost broke her eardrums."

And his visions of riches quickly turned pussycat Stanley into a tiger.

Andy Grube

"I'd been taking guff from everybody — my boss, my wife, my in-laws, everybody — all my life," he said with a sigh. "Suddenly, I thought I had all the money I'd ever need, and I wasn't going to take anybody's crap anymore.

"That afternoon I went home and my wife lit into me the minute I came through the door. And for the first time in my life I told her to kiss off.

"I packed a suitcase and told her to get her fat butt out of my way 'cause I was leaving and never coming back. That felt so good I went down and told my boss all the things I'd been saving up for 21 years — then I kicked over the wastebasket on my way out the door."

From there, ecstatic Stan, 42, went shopping for summer shirts, shorts and sandals, then stopped by a travel agent's office and bought a first-class ticket to Bermuda.

But moments later, his dream came crashing down around him.

Outside the travel agent's office, frantic Andy and his co-conspirator intercepted their beaming buddy and sheepishly confessed their crime.

"They said they were sorry, they never thought I'd go off the deep end like that," said hapless Stanley. "So I told them not to worry about it.

"Then they left and suddenly I had nothing at all to do — so I walked down to the soap kitchen for a bite to eat."

Principal steals $58,000 from kids' cookie money!

GREEDY ex-principal Thomas E. O'Keefe admitted swiping money his own students had raised — over a 10-year period!

Bright-eyed kids at a junior high school sold candy, cookies and magazines to raise money for field trips and didn't know for 10 years the principal was stealing it.

Authorities estimated Agawam, Mass., Junior High principal Thomas E. O'Keefe pocketed at least $58,000 from the student activities account before he was caught.

By JACK ALEXANDER
Staff writer

"He got caught with his hand in the cookie jar and admitted the whole thing," said a detective who worked on the case.

Sticky-fingered O'Keefe admitted in court that he began stealing from the activities fund shortly after he became principal in 1981.

"It was easy for him to steal the money since his signature was the only one required on the account and it was never audited," District Attorney William Bennett said.

O'Keefe secretly benefited from the youngsters' labors until a parent-teacher group formed in September of 1990.

They wondered what happened to all that money their kids had been raising for the student activities fund. They asked why the students had to pay for field trips.

After auditing the fund, the teachers went to the school superintendent's office. An associate superintendent called O'Keefe in on the carpet.

He admitted embezzling the money and resigned, according to D.A. Bennett. O'Keefe, a teacher in the Hampden County school system for 30 years before taking the $48,000-a-year principal's job, pleaded guilty to stealing more than $58,000. The crooked bigshot was sentenced to six months in jail and placed on two years probation.

He was ordered to pay $24,500 in restitution to the fund. Police say he paid back some of the money earlier.

GLIDER INVADES PICNIC!

Barrie Roberts and his wife Carol went to the countryside for a picnic — and nearly got killed when a glider smashed into their car!

The couple from Shalbourne, England, had gotten out of their car to have their open-air snack when the tragedy happened.

"We were having a cup of tea and a sandwich when I felt this terrific draft and a whooshing noise, like the sound of rushing air," said Roberts, 52. "I looked up and saw the glider coming straight at us. I grabbed my wife, shouted, 'Look out!' and we ducked to the ground."

The pilot and his instructor were killed.

Bank Robbery? —It's Legal!

People all over the U.S. are grabbing thousands of dollars from banks by following the advice of a shocking new book called Bank Robbery.

Surprisingly, both the book and its methods are perfectly legal.

Technically, the money is just a "loan." However, thanks to a legal loophole, you can keep the "loan" as long as you like — all you have to do is make interest payments.

Almost anyone can take $500 to $5,000 from a bank just by filling out a special, little-known form. Do it at several banks and you'll get $20,000 or more. Even unemployed people can get money, using the easy steps which the book explains in exact detail.

Other amazing secrets exposed include how to cancel debts without bankruptcy, stop bill collectors, erase bad credit records and get all kinds of credit cards easily. The author of this book has many different credit cards.

Even if you don't need credit right now, you can get the loan pre-approved in case you lose your job, have unexpected expenses or find a hot investment.

Getting money from right-fisted banks is now so easy that many bankers are burning mad. One even sent a nasty letter to the publisher. There's no telling how long this book will be available or the loopholes will continue to exist. So you should order your copy right away.

The price is $15 — but you can get it for free. How? Nowadays, most bank cards charge annual fees of $15-$20. But you'll find out how to get the card without paying the fee... so just that one piece of knowledge will pay for the book.

They even guarantee that you'll get the loan or credit you need — or they'll send your money back if you show you were turned down.

Get this explosive, revealing book today, while it's still available. Send $15 now to Discovery Publishers, Dept. 240-D, 11160 Veirs Mill Rd. L-15, Wheaton, MD. 20902. Do it

Red-hot candy diet has kept South Carolina man healthy for 30 years

He's lived on Atomic Fireballs — & nothing else — since 1961!

Red-hot candy fireballs feel like a burning torch in the mouths of most people, but tough Tony Morgan has eaten nothing else for 30 years — and he's healthy as a horse.

"I dearly love those little balls of fire," said the burly mechanic from Columbia, S.C. "But ya gotta be a real man to stomach them."

Tony had high blood pressure, chronic aches and pains and no energy left after a day's work when he switched from ordinary food to Atomic Fireballs in the spring of 1961.

By SCOTTY PAUL
Correspondent

"It wasn't planned. I just began eating the darned things and nothing else tasted good to me. I've eaten almost a half-million of them since then."

The 61-year-old divorcee was eating bacon, eggs, gravy and biscuits for breakfast, a full course meal at lunch and a hefty dinner every day 30 years ago.

"I'd come home and flake out on the sofa. I was a real couch potato. I didn't feel like doing anything but watch TV and go to bed," he said.

All that changed the day he sucked on his first Atomic Fireball. Hot breath Tony liked it so well he lost his taste for anything else.

"I've eaten about 40 fireballs a day for the past 30 years. I boil them in water for fireball soup and there's always a pitcher of fireball tea in the fridge."

Tony's wife left him because she couldn't stand his red-hot breath that even the strongest mouthwash couldn't hide.

"She was one of my biggest pains, anyway," he laughed.

Hard as nails Tony saved big bucks on his grocery bill when he switched from food to fireballs. He buys them wholesale for about two cents each.

He has passed every annual physical with flying colors the past 30 years.

"My blood pressure is normal, my heart is sound and my lungs are clear," he told The NEWS. "I feel like a teenager."

Tony isn't suggesting others try his Atomic Fireball diet even though it has turned his life around.

"It might create a shortage and then they'd jack up the price," he said.

FIT-AS-A-FIDDLE Tony enjoys a glass of tea made from Atomic Fireballs.

IRON STOMACH: Tony Morgan says he's eaten a half-million candy fireballs since 1961 and nothing else. This one

Starving missionaries kept themselves alive — by eating cannibals!

Baffled rescuers wondered how a missionary couple managed to survive being lost for months in the steamy Amazon jungle — until they found what was left of the cannibals the two had eaten!

HOUSE OF HORRORS: Felix Saldanas led rescuers to the gruesome stash of human flesh in jungle shack.

When a search team found Irma and Claude Aubert, they were amazed at how well-fed they seemed after disappearing almost three months ago in one of the most forbidding jungles on Earth.

But their amazement turned into gut-wrenching revulsion when the rescuers discovered the couple's stash of smoke-cured human flesh hanging in a corner of a ramshackle house they were holing up in.

"A man will do anything . . . anything . . . to survive when he is crazed with hunger," Claude Aubert told his rescuers. "To us, they were not human beings. They were our only salvation . . . they were food."

By MICKEY McGUIRE
Correspondent

The 31-year-old missionary and his 40-year-old wife are being held in an undisclosed jail on suspicion of murder, illegally entering a federally restricted zone and for illegal contact with protected tribes.

"We couldn't believe how healthy and well-fed they looked when we found them," said Felix Saldanas, the man who led the search team.

"Then we discovered where they'd been living. They had been eating human flesh.

"The scene was something that belonged in a horror film. Bones and skulls were scattered everywhere and parts of human bodies were hanging like smoked hams from the rafters. Just thinking about it that it was cannibals . . . not missionaries . . . that wound up in the cooking pot. My God! It was awful."

Irma and Claude Aubert, the Bible-thumping founders of a struggling missionary movement, vanished in the darkest depths of Brazil's Amazon jungle.

"We had to assume they were alive," a police spokesman in Manaus said. "A search party went into the jungle and found them living in a shack in an otherwise deserted village."

In a statement to police, Aubert said a band of savages had raided their camp and carried away all of their supplies, leaving them without food or water.

"Irma and I starved for two weeks before the savages came back for us," Aubert said. "But I had a pistol and I managed to kill three of them before the others fled.

"We didn't even stop to think about it. I cut up the bodies and cooked some of the meat which we ate right away. Then I built a smoke pit and

HOW TO COLLECT $$$ FROM UNCLE SAM

One out of every four Americans are collecting monthly benefits from Uncle Sam. This year alone over $250 billion will be handed out despite proposed budget cuts. If you are eligible for benefits but don't know how to apply, you may simply lose out.

But you don't have to lose out. A new book explains the many cash benefits available to eligible Americans today. The book explains how to collect: Social Security benefits, small business loans, income supplements, education benefits, home and farm loans, unemployment, job training, rent assistance, disability payments, pensions, veteran's benefits, even food stamps and welfare. The book was written by a former Federal investigator. It has not been approved or endorsed by any branch of the Federal government. Here are a few facts covered:

- How 34 million Americans collect monthly benefit checks from one program alone.
- How almost 3 million children get monthly benefit checks.
- How eligible couples collect up to $1,000 a month to supplement the family income.
- How to qualify for disability pensions (over 2.5 million collecting ten thousands more eligible).
- How to know when to quit work and start collecting monthly retirement benefits.
- How you may be cheating yourself out of cash benefits rightfully due you.
- How to collect unemployment benefits even if you quit your job or were fired.
- How to get free legal assistance.
- How to get a good-paying Federal job.
- How to get a $500,000 loan to start your own business. (It's simple and the book tells you exactly how to do it).
- How to collect a $250,000 loan to buy a farm or ranch, including livestock and equipment.
- How to collect a $21,000 loan for a mobile home, including lot.
- How to collect a $15,000 loan for home improvements.
- How to collect over $400 a month to attend college, trade school or get on the job training.
- How to get free medical coverage, including eye glasses and dental care.
- How to collect hundreds of dollars a month to pay your apartment rent, including utilities.
- How to get up to a $100,000 small business loan, even if you are poor and unemployed.
- How to obtain thousands of dollars in free Federal services.

With the help of this book, many families are now living more comfortably.

Although the book How To Collect Big Dollars From Uncle Sam could mean thousands of dollars to you, it is being offered at only $12.95 (plus $3 postage and handling).

QUEEN ENRAGED BY SHOCKING POSTER OF DIANA!

IT'S BACK! Outrageous picture of Princess Diana has popped up all over Europe and Queen Elizabeth, inset, has popped a gasket.

First the divorce rumors — now this!

The sun never sets on the British empire's troubles. Still reeling from all the swirling rumors of Princess Diana's unprecedented attempt to divorce hubby Charlie, Queen Elizabeth now has to deal with this eye-opening poster of Di undressing to excess.

"To say that her majesty is not amused by the reappearance of this vile mockery of the Princess of Wales is to put it mildly," says a Buckingham Palace insider. "The Queen is absolutely, positively livid."

The lifelike illustration of an unzippered member of the royal family first surfaced in Penthouse magazine in 1985. The skin mag plastered New York subway stations with the risque pic in a provocative attempt to boost sales.

Now the lurid shot is showing up on walls all over continental Europe. And T-shirts with the caption "zipper-dee-doo-dah" are popping up on Riviera beaches.

"Her majesty views this crude paste-up as a brazen effort to defame the future Queen of England, and by extension, the very monarchy itself," says a royal-watcher.

"She has vowed to spare no effort in apprehending the rogues responsible for this outrage." — Special to The NEWS

WORLD'S HOTTEST GOSSIP

By JOHN MANNON

Are TV execs losing their marbles?

Doogie's losin' his virginity!

Doogie Howser loses it this fall — his virginity, that is, and one TV critic isn't all that thrilled about it.

"What bothers me is not what happens to Doogie, as portrayed by Neil Patrick Harris," writes Kay Gardella of the New York Daily News. "It's the impact it will have on young viewers."

Producers of the show offer three reasons for Doogie's plunge into adulthood. He's a doctor, for God's sake! He's always been a few steps ahead of kids his age, except in this all-important department. And everybody's doing it!

"When I asked the producers of Doogie Howser, M.D. why, if Doogie is serious about someone, couldn't he get married?

"The reply was, 'He's too young for that.' But, of course, he's not too young to move out of his family home and become sexually involved with a girlfriend," complains Gardella.

"Why not spare our young viewers TV's seal of approval and find another way to tell a story? Aren't writers taking the easy way out?" — New York Daily News

PLAYING DOCTOR: Neil Patrick Harris and Lisa Dean Ryan star in Doogie Howser, M.D. Doogie's gonna DO IT next season — but not with his main squeeze!

SEXY Mary Hart shows why her gams have attracted so much attention.

J. Fun crazy. The latest demonia drove M.J. and wife Tracy from a fancy Beverly Hills eatery. "He walked up to the table, pulled the fork from my wife's mouth, and took a bite of her food," the pint-sized star said.

"He was ranting on about wanting our autograph and kept telling Tracy that he was in love with her." — London Mirror

Leggy Mary Hart of Entertainment Tonight, whose glamorous gams are insured by Lloyd's of London for a million bucks APIECE, used to take extra care shaving them stems. But not any more.

"I'm really embarrassed talking about this," says Mary.

"My legs get more attention than I do! But it is true that I go places and people stare at my legs." — Miami Herald

The sad, bad word from the set of The Irish Story in Montana is that the Cruises, Tom and wife Nicole Kidman, have gone ballistic. Their 22-man security squad behaves like thugs and director Ron Howard has little to do because tiny Tom and nasty Nicole call all the shots.

The Cruise missiles caught some flak at the Lucky Diamond restaurant in Billings when a waitress "accidentally" dumped a tray of sea water and brandy Alexanders on the pompous pair.

GET REAL!

Yummy Emma Samms of Dynasty fame is amazed at the plastic surgery industry in Tinseltown. "There's a stereotype in Hollywood of no butt, large breasts and a pretty face — and not many people are born that way," says Em, who's never gone under the cosmetic knife.

"Somebody gave me a hug recently and said, 'Wow, real breasts! That makes a nice change.' I guess he has been in the business too long and forgotten what it was like." — Philadelphia Inquirer

Grifters gal Annette Bening isn't worried about the 21-year age difference between herself and papa-to-be Warren Beatty.

Tips from an expert on finding the guy of your dreams

HOW TO TRAP A MAN

By SUSAN JIMISON
Staff writer

Marriage-minded females who dream of finding the perfect mate had better heed the advice of author Tracy Cabot — and trade in their fantasies for her foolproof Man Plan.

It takes serious scheming to snag a husband, she says, and her book How to Make a Man Fall in Love With You (Dell, $5.95) — is a primer on how to do it.

"You can't just go stand somewhere and have men flock to you unless you look like Brooke Shields. And if you looked like Brooke Shields you wouldn't be without a man," said Tracy, 30, who married her own husband using the tips she shares with readers in her book.

"My techniques are a trap, I guess, but it's a tender trap, a kind, loving trap and nothing that's going to hurt anybody. And they're guaranteed to work."

Tracy, who researched her subject by reading up on the latest psychological studies, interviewing experts and doing her own experiments, offers these sure-fire tips for winning a perfect mate:

1. Make a real commitment to find a man. Love doesn't just happen, you have to make it happen.

2. Decide to try something new. Don't just repeat your mistakes by doing what you've done before in relationships that failed.

3. Make a Man Plan. Sit down and think of exactly what you want in a man. You want to find someone who will fit in with your needs.

4. Now devise a Search Plan. To successfully undertake a manhunt you need a volume of eligible men. Singles bars are out — men you find there are rarely looking for a relationship. Dating services and personal ads in newspapers and magazines offer men who may be more committed to finding a mate.

5. When you meet Mr. Right, don't give him much time.

He may get the idea you're desperate and needy. If you project a message that says, "Here I am, I'm all yours," he's likely to lose interest.

6. Don't let him walk all over you. Put your foot down the first time he misbehaves. Don't be afraid to make a fuss — if he leaves you, you probably haven't lost much and at least you'll still have your self-esteem.

7. Mirror — or mimic — your man. Copy the way he dresses, the way he moves, the way he speaks.

Pretty soon he'll feel comfortable with you without knowing why.

8. Find out if he's basically a visual person, an auditory person or a feelings-oriented person.

He'll be more comfortable — and more susceptible to falling in love with you — if you express yourself in his language pattern, talking about how something looks or feels or sounds.

It will develop a feeling of trust between the two of you and that is the first step toward a deeper devotion.

COPY the way your man dresses and mirror the way he moves, advises love expert Tracy Cabot. "Pretty soon he'll feel comfortable with you — and more susceptible to falling in love."

Vodka chugalug contest kills Florida teen

Fat doll is no Barbie!

I'm madder than a skunk in a perfume factory over this new fat doll toymakers have come up with to challenge our beloved Barbie — America's plastic sweetheart since 1958.

She'll make little girls want to look like pigs!

By ED ANGER

That's the last thing we need, for crying out loud! A chubby role model for America's little girls.

What this new chunky doll does, folks, is tell girls it's okay to pig out whenever they want and end up looking like fat sows instead of Vanna White.

As far as yours truly is concerned, Barbie is THE beauty standard for gals.

This new "Happy To Be Me" doll is supposed to offer a "more realistic body image to young, impressionable girls."

Egghead researchers say young gals develop eating disorders later in life trying to look like Barbie instead of some fatso doll.

The "Happy To Be Me" doll has bigger hips and feet than Barbie and a bigger waist — which means a potbelly for Pete's sake.

Aren't there enough tubby girls running around without adding to the population?

All this new doll is going to do is make the clothes manufacturers richer, because they'll have to use more cloth to make women's dresses.

And little girls will cost more to feed than they do now because they'll all be trying to look like this roly-poly doll. If this chunky new doll is a hit, the Miss America Pageant will be a Delta Burke look-alike contest by the year 2000!

Let's face it. Barbie is pretty and this new doll isn't.

But what makes me so pig-bitting mad is that the next thing they'll do is make this fat doll more realistic — and put plastic cellulite on her hips and thighs!

Barbie is, was and always will be the ideal look for American women — not some corn-fed cutie with a behind broader than blubberbutt Oprah Winfrey's!

FAT "Happy To Be Me" doll, left, and the beautiful Barbie, right.

Cat finds its way home — four years and 1,500 miles later!

It took Sam the cat four years to do it, but somehow he found his way home — in an incredible journey that covered almost 1,500 miles!

Linda Thompson couldn't believe her eyes when she looked down at the bedraggled cat that had taken up residence in a neighbor's garage in Beaver Dam, Wis.

The last time she had seen that blue-eyed, black and white critter was in 1987, when she dropped him off at the Humane Society refuge . . . in Tucson, Ariz.!

"I haven't the faintest idea how he made it back, but he did," the soft-spoken mother of two told The NEWS. "When my neighbor told me our cat was living in their garage, I said it couldn't possibly be Sam. I had left him in Tucson four years before." Linda said she had Sam when she moved from Beaver Dam to Tucson in 1986. But a year later, when she moved back to her former home, she left Sam at the Tucson Humane Society, where, it's presumed, he was adopted into a new home.

Over the family's next four years in Beaver Dam, the memory of little Sam stayed locked away in that special place people have in their hearts for their pets.

But that all changed one evening when Linda had dinner with a neighbor who lives in the house she and the boys lived in before the move west.

"She had known Sam when he lived with us," Linda said, she told me that my cat was living in her garage. I told her that wasn't possible because I had left him in Tucson.

"But my 16-year-old son Troy decided to investigate. He knew right away that it was Sam and Sam remembered him. Troy brought him home and Sam acted as though he had never been away."

Linda, who works as a secretary, said Sam was skinny, scruffy and malnourished when Troy brought him home.

But lots of food and tender loving care have done wonders for the globe-trotting kitty.

It's an easy guess that Sam must have run away from the people who adopted him. What's not so easy to explain is how the heck he made that 1,500-mile trek home.

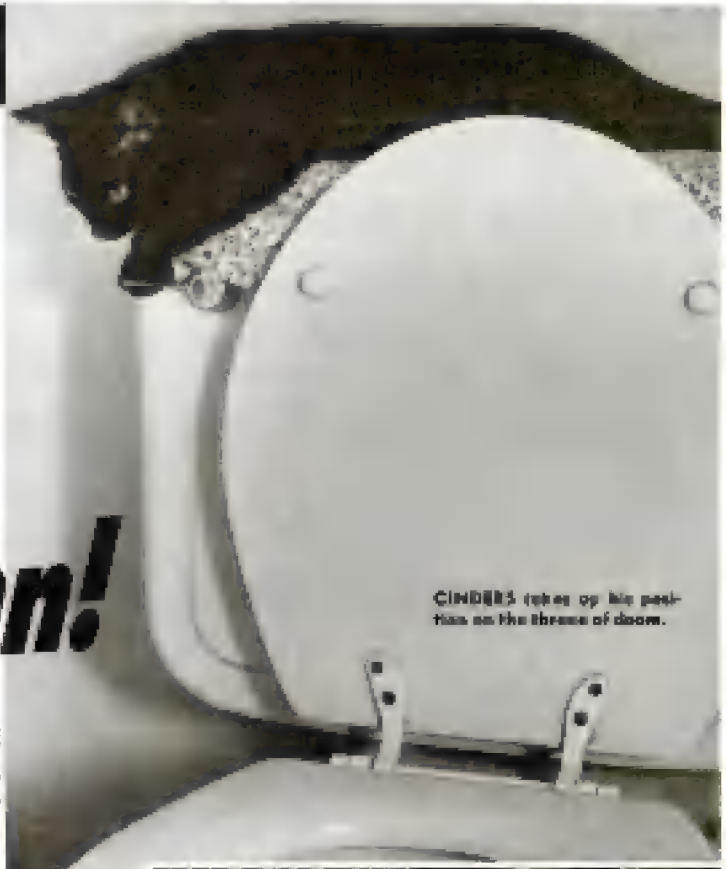
Terror in the toilet!

Fiendish cat flushes birds down the john!



CINDERS takes up his position on the throne of doom.

By BEATRICE DEXTER
Correspondent

A jealous pussycat named Cinders has his mistress all to himself now — because he killed off her three fish, two hamsters, and two birds by flushing them all down the john!

Houston housewife Sandra Connors says she's keeping her fiendish feline in spite of what he's done, since she's had him for seven years and can't imagine living without him. But she's not going to get any more pets, she says.

"We're very close and he's very spoiled and I think that's what the problem is," said Sandra, 37, a divorced nurse. "Every time I got a new pet, he got upset.

"The next thing I knew the fish bowl was empty or the bird cage was open and I heard the sound of the toilet flushing. Cinders looks real innocent but he's treacherous. He was killing my pets off by flushing them down the john. I even found feathers in the toilet bowl once."

Mrs. Connors has had Cinders since she found him as a 3-week-old kitten abandoned on the street. He was such a clever kitty she taught him to use the toilet when he wants to, flushing it after he's finished.

The kitty was Mrs. Connors' only pet for six years, and then the childless woman decided to get a few more animals. At first Cinders got along all right with the new animals, a pair of hamsters, three goldfish and two parakeets.

But after several months, the new pets mysteriously began to disappear.

"First it was the fish," Mrs. Connors recalled. "I noticed one day there were just two of them in the fish bowl. I thought maybe one died and the others ate him.

"Then the other two turned up missing and I found water slopped all over the table near their fish bowl. I followed the water drops toward the bathroom and found Cinders in there flushing the toilet."

Mrs. Connors says she started keeping a closer eye on Cinders and sure enough, every time a pet disappeared, she'd hear her pussycat flush the toilet. The two hamsters vanished from their cage on a night when Cinders was up and prowling, flushing the toilet over, the door open. The birds disappeared two days later, while the Texas woman was taking a shower.

When she realized Cinders had just flushed the john, she ran to the birds' cage and found the door open. A glance at the toilet confirmed her worst fears — there were blue feathers stuck inside the rim. Since then Cinders has had his mistress to himself again.

"I'm sadder but wiser and I'm not getting any more pets," Mrs. Connors said. "My cat's very sweet, but he's a killer and I don't want anything bad

Then jealous tom sends fish & hamsters down the drain too!

How to beat your fear of the dentist!

Are you terrified of the dentist? So are more than 25 million other Americans! But these tips from an expert can help you overcome your fear:

✓ Realize that new technology has developed virtually pain-free dental treatment.

Read up on all the advances — like anesthetics applied to the gums which keep you from feeling even the prick of a needle, says dental anxiety expert Dr. Robert Gatchel.

"Nitrous oxide is also a great dentist's tool. This gas puts the patient into a twilight sleep."

✓ Shop for a dentist who caters to cowards. Ask your friends and relatives if they know or can recommend a painless dentist.

Before you begin treatment, call the dentist's office and ask for a consultation.

"Explain your fears to the dentist.

"Ask him to explain each procedure and how he will handle your fears.

"A dentist who's willing to explain this is probably a good choice."

✓ Bring along your own distractions.

"Take your tape player with your favorite tapes, or a miniature TV or hand-held video game. Dentists who care about your fear won't mind one bit."

✓ Imagine the pain you'll have later if you don't go now.

"You're setting yourself up for sheer agony later. Most people lose their teeth due to gum disease.

"But before the teeth go, they put you through a long period of sheer torture."

✓ Count your money in the dental chair.

Realize how much money you will save in the long run if you go to the dentist for regular checkups.

Hubby pays AIDS victim to romance his cheatin' wife!

A jealous hubby is facing 20 years behind bars on charges he decided to get even with his runaround wife by hiring an AIDS victim to seduce her!

Authorities charged Ramon Vega with attempted murder, saying he paid $10,000 to a male model diagnosed as having the fatal disease and told the AIDS victim to sleep with his wife.

He faces 20 years in the slammer for fiendish plot

Health officials in Madrid, Spain, said Vega's 32-year-old wife, Carmen, currently shows no symptoms of AIDS, but noted the dreaded disease may not be detected for several years. During the preliminary hearing prosecutor Luis Bara said Vega began planning the bizarre scheme six months ago after learning of his wife's affair with a neighbor.

"Mr. Vega approached the director of Madrid's Gay Rights Alliance and said he wanted to help out victims of AIDS," Bara told the magistrate. "As he is a prominent businessman who has often involved himself in community work, Mr. Vega was provided with the names of all Alliance members suffering from AIDS."

According to the prosecutor, Vega settled on Julian Latasa, a handsome male model, and paid the 24-year-old AIDS victim to seduce his wife.

"Latasa accepted payment and did, in fact, sleep with Mrs. Vega on three occasions," Bara said. Authorities said Mr. Vega later confronted his wife about her affair with Latasa: "When his wife denied sleeping with Latasa, Mr. Vega laughed and said, 'It's a good thing you didn't go to bed with him because he has AIDS,'" according to the prosecutor.

"Mrs. Vega became hysterical and rushed to Latasa's apartment to find out the truth," Bara said.

"Latasa admitted the whole thing to her and is prepared to testify against Mr. Vega."

An attorney for Vega said the businessman merely felt sorry for the AIDS victim and gave him money to help pay medical expenses.

Vega pleaded not guilty to the attempted murder charge.

Couple weds — 35 years late!

A couple got the surprise of their lives a few weeks before their 35th wedding anniversary when they discovered they weren't legally married.

Brother drops his drawers in front of my friends!

Dear Dotti: I'm a 14-year-old girl and my 24-year-old brother is driving me up a wall. When my friends come over to visit he takes his clothes off and parades around in a towel, flashing us by opening and closing the front.

I've complained to my parents but they don't believe me. What can I do? — Frustrated in Cincinnati

Dear Frustrated: Get yourself a pea shooter and the next time big brother flashes you and your buddies, pop him where it hurts. That'll put a stop to his shenanigans — I personally guarantee it!

Birdbrained parents keep me cooped up all the time

Dear Dotti: You may not believe this but I have to spend all my time out of school on the front porch listening to the radio because my parents work and won't let me leave the house because they're afraid I'll be raped. I can't even go to the movies because the idiots bought a new house that cost twice as much as our old one and we don't have the cash to spare. If I have to spend one more minute on the porch with my radio I'm going to kill myself — and I'm only 12 years old! — Suicidal in Sherwood

Dear Suicidal: You listen to me, you little snothead, and you listen to me good. Your parents bust their butts to keep you fed and in clothes and while THAT may make them idiots, buying a new house doesn't. If you don't want to sit on the porch and listen to the radio, sit on the porch and read a good book!

Hubby's dead wife is haunting our marriage

Dear Dotti: My husband of 18 months is a wonderful guy but he's got one big problem — his ex-wife. She died over five years ago but he claims to be in touch with her through a medium and is constantly on my butt because SHE doesn't like the things I do. She doesn't like my hair, my clothes, my housekeeping, my cooking — and my husband nags me about it because she's still got some kind of hold on him. I can't fight a ghost, Dotti. What should I do? — Lost in Kansas City

Dear Lost: The next time your husband seeks advice from his ex, tell him to get his losers from her to boot. If he's any kind of man at all he'll see the error of his ways and never mention the dead broad again!

Should we save the trees or chop 'em all down?

Dear Dotti: This may sound like a ridiculous question but I really want to know your opinion. Should the rain forests be stripped to the ground or should they be saved? I'm dying to know what you think. — Wondering in California

Dear Wondering: Assuming that I'll live to the ripe old age of 90, we've GOT to save the rain forests until 2055 — at least!

I simply must know — just what is a pinhead?

Dear Dotti: You call people "pinhead" all the time and I've been wondering: What the hell is a "pinhead?" — Curious in Nashville

Dear Curious: If you really want to know what a pinhead is, look in the mirror — and say something!

Ask the Countess

Why do I see the number 13 everywhere?

Dear Countess: I've been seeing the number 13 all over the place for the past eight months. I see it in my dreams, it shows up on my bills — I even see it in random patterns of dirt and dust that collect in my house. What does this mean? And if it's something bad could you make it better? — Worried in Florida

Dear Countess: I know this quest, but I want you to put a curse on me. That's right, Countess, I've led an absolutely charmed life for 58 years and to be frank about it, I'm bored stiff. I've got a wonderful family, a gorgeous the bank. But I just don't enjoy it because I've never had anything bad happen to me so I have nothing to compare my good life to. This is no joke. I've actually thought about committing suicide over last hope. — Charmed in New York

Dear Charmed: Your life is already cursed, my dear. That's why you're so terribly unhappy and long for the ups, downs and daily challenges that make life so interesting for everyone else.

I will intervene on your behalf, however. From this day on you will lead a normal life — free of the curse that condemned you to 58 years of "perfect" hell!

WHEELING, W.Va. — Childless widow Hanna Collins died, went to heaven and miraculously revived — and when she came back to life, she was pregnant!

The pretty auto wreck victim remembers leaving her badly injured body on the operating table and traveling to a beautiful paradise where her dead husband awaited her. They made love before she returned to life again — and now she's expecting a baby!

"My husband died three years ago and I have not even had a boyfriend since that time," the 29-year-old woman told a reporter for her church newsletter.

"So I know that the baby I am carrying is my dead husband's child. He gave me a great gift of love. I am so proud."

The young telephone operator was married to her truck driver husband Fred for five years before he died of cancer in 1988. The couple desperately wanted a baby, but could not conceive.

her dead mate that friends and family worried she would never recover from his death. But after a year or so she put aside her grief, found a challenging job and resumed a normal life.

Then on March 21, 1991, Hanna was involved in a car accident that left her with severe internal injuries.

She was rushed into surgery — and "died" on the operating table.

Oh Lord, Rodney, here comes that SUCKER again!

PRAIRIE DOGS are unwelcome critters to farmers.

Colorado prairie dog catcher uses a giant vacuum cleaner!

No prairie dog is safe in its hole with Guy Balfour's new contraption — a huge mechanical vacuum cleaner that sucks them right out of their burrows, unharmed!

The $30,000 device is strong enough to suck up bowling balls.

But the rodents are yanked up and into a holding tank on a large truck with scarcely a bruise, Balfour says.

"When you look in the tank after the dust settles, they're back to digging holes and wrestling and carrying on like they always do," Balfour of Cortez, Colo., says.

"One minute they're in their hole. The next thing they're in the box."

Prairie dogs are a major concern to farmers in eastern Colorado. A single prairie dog may dig more than 42 holes in an acre of ground — and it's not uncommon to have 100 prairie dogs to an acre.

Traditionally, prairie dogs have been shot, trapped or poisoned, but they live in areas used by some endangered species such as the black-footed ferret and the burrowing owl, so poisons are discouraged.

Balfour, 50, and his son-in-law, Dave Lindhorst, have nicknamed their machine "Dog Gone."

They rent their services for $125 an hour, $800 a day, and they've been busy juggling calls daily. When possible, Balfour says, the dispossessed prairie dogs are relocated to a wilderness area.

When not possible, they're gassed with carbon monoxide.

The idea for "Dog Gone" came to Balfour in a dream. He remove prairie dogs. Balfour uses a converted street-sweeper. He adapted its 300 m.p.h. suction system with some hoses and connections he rigged in his they can't overcome it. Their logic isn't like ours.

Bandit holds cat hostage

A heartless bandit knew how to get to pet lover Marjorie Weakley — he threatened to slice up her cat Bird unless she gave him money.

"I have this cat here, and I'm going to kill it if you don't open that safe," the sleazeball told the horrified, 60-year-old woman.

Marjorie was so nervous she couldn't open the safe, but gave the punk $37 in tips her daughter had made at a Delray Beach, Fla., restaurant the night before.

"When he picked up Bird, I could have died."

Dress like a $million — without spending a mint!

S-t-r-e-t-c-h your wardrobe budget and look just great without spending a bundle — with these sure-fire tips from an expert.

✔ Hold your man's side of the closet. "Use his ties for fun belts and sashes — or put shoulder pads in his shirts," suggested Constance Schrader, author of the book Makeover.

✔ Get double-duty out of sportswear. "Leotards can be worn as tops with shorts, casual slacks and skirts.

"Or you can layer them under blouses or jackets for an added note of color," said Miss Schrader.

"Also a pair of high-heeled sandals and bold, dramatic jewelry can make a velour warm-up suit into a fashion statement."

✔ Buy seasonless clothes. Look for medium-weight fabrics and neutral colors that will be comfortable anytime of the year.

✔ Consider cleaning costs. "If a garment has to be dry-cleaned, take the added expense into account."

✔ Shop for shirts and socks in the men's department. Men's clothes often cost less — and frequently they're better made.

✔ Shop smart. "Shop with a list — you'll avoid impulse buying. Buy quality items — you'll get longer wear. Buy on sale and save money."

✔ Change your accessories. Use accessories to build on the basics and make your wardrobe seem bigger without buying new outfits.

Man tries to saw off his own leg!

Screaming in agony, a man was rushed to the hospital — after he tried to saw off his own leg!

The 45-year-old man was in excruciating pain caused by an infection in his leg. Unable to bear it any longer, he tried to chop off the rotting leg with a power saw.

Surgeons in Romford, England, were expected to amputate the infected limb.

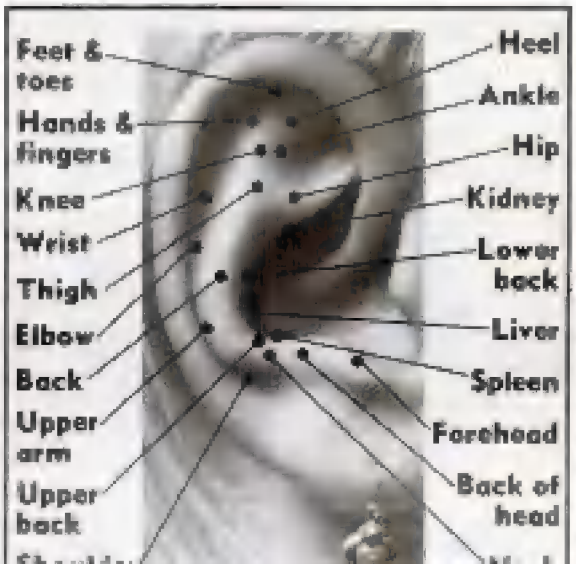
EAR'S HOW TO TELL WHAT AILS YOU!



You can learn to diagnose what ails you, researchers say — just by checking out your ears!

Changes in temperature, soreness and other ear conditions can indicate illness and — according to the precise location of the ear changes — actually help you pinpoint the part of the body affected.

"There are various changes in certain parts of the ear when specific areas of the body are stimulated," said Dr. Frederick Worley, founder of the North American Academy of Auricular Medicine and Acupuncture Research. "We notice that the ear can become very painful to the touch in a localized area corresponding to a specific part of the body.

"Accuracy on ear diagnosis is so good that an expert can achieve up to 90 percent accuracy in the diagnosis of many conditions."

use the incredible ear diagnosis technique if they know which spots on the ear are directly linked through the nervous system to various sections of the body. Using the chart at left, simply explore the ear, feeling it for warm spots or areas where the ear is painful.

For example, if the cartilage just inside the rim at the top of the ear is tender to the touch, chances are there's a problem with your feet. A pain at the top of the fleshy ear lobe indicates problems with the fore-problem is, you can consult a doctor who specializes in treating the ailing area.

Medical experts familiar with the amazing ear diagnosis technique have been astounded at the results after their initial skepticism.

"At first I thought auricular medicine was nonsense," said Dr. Yoshiaki C. Omura, who studied the method as editor of the journal Acupuncture and Electro-Therapeutics Research. "But after conducting my own studies, I believe ear diagnosis can be a useful supplement to the traditional diagnostic techniques."

GIANT HOROSCOPE

FOR WEEK OF
Mon., Sept. 23 — Sun., Sept. 29

By Countess Sophia Sabak

ARIES
Mar. 21-Apr. 19

Your time is coming!

It's the week to boost your spirits with some fun and games. Go out and spend some time and money on yourself.

Put financial woes on the back burner. Something good is cooking for you right now and it could bring some extra folding green.

Listen to an oldster's advice on handling a romantic matter. This could be just the push you need to get lovey-dovey!

TAURUS
Apr. 20-May 20

Look for smooth sailing ahead!

You should have some easy days with no major problems. And a nagging little matter that a loved one keeps bringing up could well die down by the weekend.

You'd be wise to put off a decision on how to handle money matters. Decide where those extra bucks should go — and then stick to it!

A stranger may help make romance more exciting this week so go out of your way to meet new people.

GEMINI
May 21-June 20

Take it easy this week!

Don't try to break any new ground. Just keep on doing what you're best at.

But get a little adventuresome with some extra cash and lay it out on a game or a gamble. You could get real lucky!

By laying low and not ruffling any feathers with bragging or boasting, you should make a loved one proud of you — and that always brings an extra helping of loving, doesn't it?

CANCER
June 21-July 22

Let the good times roll!

Whoop it up with family and friends and don't worry about what tomorrow might bring in the way of bills and headaches.

Something's due to come your way in a big envelope that should help you out financially. Look for it on the sidewalk.

A phone call may bring someone back into your life that you thought was gone forever. Hooray! Enjoy the reunion!

LEO
July 23-Aug. 22

Surprise! Surprise! And you'll love it!

You've been waiting a long time for this and it's finally on the way to you.

You could be asked to do something wild this week, involving skills you don't even realize you have. Don't worry! You'll definitely be up to the challenge.

Take it easy when it comes to spending this week. Say, "No dice," to any fool who tries to con you.

VIRGO
Aug. 23-Sept. 22

Take a little break!

Ease up a bit. Your loved ones will appreciate it when you stop driving yourself and them bananas with details about household chores.

In games of chance, your luck should hold all week, especially if you only wager small sums and if you go with your gut feelings.

An old friend could hit you up for a shoulder to cry on and some cash. Give the shoulder, but hang onto the cash!

LIBRA
Sept. 23-Oct. 22

Dig in and stand firm!

You're being pulled two ways over money matters and it's got to stop. Your decision is the right one and in your heart you know it.

You may need to make the first move in matters of the heart. Nobody will turn you down if you show up with a gift-wrapped love token.

Listen to the TV. Someone whose opinion matters is going to say something that could make you jump for joy.

SCORPIO
Oct. 23-Nov. 21

Don't hesitate to hustle!

This week hums with activity. Jump into the midst of it all and stir things up.

You're a charmer, and your ability to win people over should turn someone who drives you crazy into a real friend. Work on this and your life should be much more pleasant.

A minor gamble, like one of those pools someone's always running, could bring you a real payoff. Give it your best shot — and your lunch money!

SAGITTARIUS
Nov. 22-Dec. 21

You deserve a treat!

And one is waiting right around the corner. Keep your eyes open. You're going to know it when you see it — and it should be in a brown paper bag.

If you're feeling tongue-tied about a family matter, make yourself speak up and sort those relatives out. Things will settle down when they see you mean business.

Don't be greedy and wager too much, but a modest bet could pay off.

CAPRICORN
Dec. 22-Jan. 19

Take the plunge!

Go for a risky bet and you'll win. Plunge again and you'll start a winning streak.

Your favorite TV show has a hidden message about the romance in your life. Copy the behavior that you see and you should be thrilled with the results.

Go ahead this week if you want to buy a few little luxuries for home and family, but cut off any big spending for now.

AQUARIUS
Jan. 20-Feb. 18

Watch your quick tongue!

It could strike sparks from a stranger and get you into one of those situations that are hard to get out of. Can you handle it?

Are you ready for someone of the opposite sex to show more than just a friendly interest in you? It could happen soon.

Tackle money matters. Get comfortable, and a hunch about how to

PISCES
Feb. 19-Mar. 20

Thumb your nose at the world!

Keep moving ahead and you won't need to worry about who's treading on your heels. You've doing what's right, so feel comfortable with yourself and your ability.

There should be a few extra dollars lining your pockets. Spend some of it on your future. Pay an entry fee for a contest and then go for it! You've got what it takes to beat out

If your birthday is this week . . .

Mon., Sept. 23 — Sun., Sept. 29

Dreams are sure to come true this year.

Lady Luck is on your side now. News about money will take you by surprise in the next six months — and you'll be in seventh heaven!

Your charm will bring whomever you want under your spell, so put some pressure on someone whose love you crave.

Loved ones and family play a big part in your life this year. Let them share in 2 students die after butt-kicking principal locks them in closet!

By RICK TRACY
Correspondent

A hard-nosed principal caught two teenage students smoking and locked them in an airtight utility closet — where they died!

"They begged him to let them out after 24 hours, but he gave them a cup of tea and slammed the door shut," said Police Inspector Tadashe Ogawa of Nagasaki, Japan.

The unidentified boy, 14, and girl, 16, died on the way to a hospital after two days in the tombline storeroom with nothing to eat and only tea to drink.

"They knew the rules and the punishment for violating the rules," said principal Shigero Kobayashi, who said he naturally felt bad that they died but offered no apology for his action.

No charges will be filed against Kobayashi, 48, who ran the school for problem kids on a remote island near Nagasaki.

"We understand the principal got a pay raise and a promotion to a better school on the mainland," said the local police inspector.

Supporters of the principal pointed out that students sent to the island school are punks and troublemakers who refuse to attend school and create discipline problems in conventional schools.

"You have to be as tough as the young hooligans or they will walk all over you," said school superintendent Yukio Suzuki.

"That's why they were sent to the school."

The teenage thugs were locked in the closet before midnight on a Tuesday. They pleaded with the principal when he opened the closet door 24 hours later, but he wouldn't let them out.

When Principal Kobayashi opened the closet door the next day, the two youngsters were barely alive. They died less than an hour later. An autopsy showed that they had suffocated.

"Maybe they will not have died in vain if other students see what happened to them for breaking the rules," said Suzuki.

Behaving properly in the classroom and getting an education is very serious business in Japan, where students begin preparing for college their first day of school.

"There is no place in the school system for thugs who act up and prevent other children from getting a proper education," said one school spokesman.

Parents of the dead students have asked for an investigation.

"They deserved it — I caught them smoking!"

NO APOLOGY: Principal Shigero Kobayashi believes students who create discipline problems and break rules should be punished.

Are you a compulsive shopper?

You can find out if you're a compulsive shopper with this easy 10-question quiz prepared by a psychologist.

For each question, choose the answer that best suits you, then check the scoring and analysis which follow:

Test yourself and find out

1. To you, window-shopping is: a) a sure route to buying things you don't need or can't afford; b) enjoyable, when you're in the mood; c) a waste of time.

2. You use the "good things" you buy yourself, such as jewelry or an expensive cologne: a) practically never; b) on special occasions; c) all the time.

3. If you feel low, you prefer to: a) go on a shopping spree and overspend; b) buy little pick-me-ups; c) avoid shopping because it makes you feel worse.

4. You think shopping is: a) an addiction; b) a fun pastime; c) an ordeal.

5. Your credit cards: a) are always charged to the limit; b) are conveniences you don't abuse; c) are strictly for emergency use.

6. When you splurge on something expensive, you: a) often can't afford it; b) are glad you can afford it; c) feel uneasy even though you have the money for it.

7. If you won a lottery, you would: a) have no trouble spending the money; b) spend some of the money, but save most of it; c) put it all into a savings account.

8. You'd be more prone to buy: a) the "very best," even if it's over your budget; b) good quality, but moderately priced merchandise; c) a real bargain, even if it's not exactly what you want.

9. Typically, you'll come home from a shopping trip: a) with too many things; b) satisfied with what you've bought and spent; c) empty-handed or with things you're not sure you should keep.

10. When you unexpectedly come upon a "sale" sign you: a) almost always buy things you don't need or don't like; b) stop to look, but don't necessarily buy; c) rarely decide to buy, so you pass up many bargains.

SCORING

Give yourself 10 points for every "a" answer, 5 points for every "b" answer and 2 points for every "c." Then add up your score.

ANALYSIS

60 to 100 points: "You're a compulsive shopper," said psychologist Loretta Walder. You love spending money, especially on yourself. But don't use shopping as a pick-me-up. Next time you shop to boost your spirits, leave your credit cards at home and use cash to buy something inexpensive.

41 to 59 points: You're a practical shopper. You never go overboard and you treasure what you buy. "You enjoy both the shopping and your purchases," said Dr. Walder.

20 to 40 points: You don't like shopping and feel guilty about spending money. "You need an excuse, such as a birthday to buy things for yourself," said Dr. Walder. "Give yourself permission to buy the things you need and can afford."

Vacations are a Capitol idea

George Bush has spent 40 days vacationing this year, but that's nothing compared to George Washington.

The first president spent three months every summer lazing around Mount Vernon, according to U.S. News & World Report and The World Book Encyclopedia.

Here's how some of our other presidents stack up, with average number of vacation days they took per days in office:

- Jimmy Carter, one for every 18½ days.
- Richard M. Nixon, one for every 4½ days.
- Lyndon B. Johnson, one for every 5½ days.
- John F. Kennedy, one for every 3½ days.
- Ronald Reagan, one for every 6 days.

Marriage counselor swiped my wife!

Hubby sues for malpractice — & wins $67,500

When a couple with a troubled marriage went to their family doctor for counseling, he had a solution — the woman should divorce her husband and marry him!

That advice will cost Dr. Donald Robert Weersing a whopping $67,500. A Michigan jury has ruled that Dr. Weersing was guilty of malpractice because he ended up marrying Laurie Richards, 25, after she and her husband, James, came to him looking for help.

Laurie Richards was pregnant with the couple's second child at the time. Eventually, Dr. Weersing delivered the couple's child — and Laurie named the boy Robert after him.

"She was still pregnant when she and the doctor started dating," explained Bill Stern, attorney for James Richards. The couple saw the doctor for four visits — at $100 each.

They stopped, Stern said, "because Richards got mad at the doctor.

"He accused the doctor of advocating separation and divorce. He got the feeling the whole thing was a scheme to get him to agree to leave his wife."

Richards sued Dr. Weersing for malpractice "because the doctor had a duty to my client as a patient not to cause him harm and to act in his best interest," Stern said.

"There's no blanket prohibition of a doctor dating a patient.

"But a doctor should suppress his own desires in the best interest of his patient."

Dr. Weersing divorced his wife and married Laurie Richards after her divorce last year.

The couple live on isolated Mackinac Island.

Laughing frogs drive folks nuts!

Riverside residents are suffering through endless sleepless nights and they're blaming their woes on a rare croaking frog.

The endangered Batrachian or "laughing frogs" tune up at about 9 in the evening and don't stop singing until 6 the next morning. "There is a deafening concert," complained Thierry Sicard, whose house on the Vaucluse River in southern France overlooks the frogs' breeding ground. "It's no longer possible to hear the television."

There's no way to get rid of the frogs, even in France where frog legs are considered a delicacy. The laughing frogs are not edible and because they are an endangered species, they can be killed only with police permission.

Cops give up doughnuts — for raw fish!

Cops in Phoenix, Ariz., are on a health kick — so they've traded in their calorie-loaded doughnuts for low-fat sushi.

The officers used to hang out around a doughnut shop at mealtime. But new emphasis on physical fitness has resulted in long lines of flatfoots at a place called Tokyo Express that serves tofu, vegetables and raw fish.

"Our life expectancy after retirement is only a few years on the average," said police officer Steve Riggins. "Heart attacks and coronary disease are the No. 1 cop killers. We are trying to do something

FAT FURY

Tubby twin sisters beat hell out of pastor — when he preaches against obesity!

By JOE BERGER
Staff writer

Tub-of-lard twins Gina and Paulina Weams were so incensed by their arrogant pastor's sermon on the evils of obesity that they stormed the pulpit — and beat the puny preacher to a pulp!

"We sat there for an hour listening to that little worm prattle on about how lazy and selfish fat people are," jiggling Gina later told reporters.

"Finally I just couldn't take it anymore. I looked at Paulina and she looked at me, and the next thing I knew we were on top of the guy, pounding the holy hell out of him.

"We never should have done it, I know — but I think we taught that hothead preacher what the fear of God is all about."

The fed-up fatties — crunching the scales at a thundering 313 pounds apiece — sprang into action as skinny minister Ezra Pine preached his first sermon at the little Angel of God Church outside Johannesburg, South Africa.

"They sent us this fellow after our regular pastor got sick, and he turned out to be very snooty and self-righteous, prancing around like a little peacock," recalled flab-harassed parishioner Penny Sedman.

"That first Sunday he kept going on about how awful it was to be fat, because fat people aren't taking care of the bodies God gave them. We have quite a few heavy people in our congregation, and you could feel the tension building.

"Suddenly one of the Weams girls yelled, 'All right, jerk, that's enough!' and they came barreling toward the pulpit like a couple of runaway rhinos."

'They both came barreling toward the pulpit like runaway rhinos!'

Jellybellied Gina, 30, reached the pompous preacher first, flooring him with a meaty forearm that sent his two front teeth skittering into the choir section.

"I saw Reverend Pine go down, and then the sisters landed on him like a ton of bricks," said astonished organist Leon Waverly. "I could see his face turning blue and hear him gasping for air under all that flab, and I was really afraid the twins might kill him.

"But real quick, several people ran up and pulled them off him.

"By then the man was in such a daze I don't think he knew what'd hit him."

The embarrassed pastor was treated for cuts, bruises and a broken nose at a nearby hospital. He refused to press charges against the wide-bodied bullies — or to return to the scene of the shellacking.

"He sent us a note saying he wouldn't be taking over said the unnerved organist. "He said he was looking for something a little safer."

Sperm bank's bizarre boo-boo gives white mom black baby!

A white woman who got the wrong sperm won $400,000 in a court settlement for giving birth to a black baby.

The unidentified woman accused a New York doctor and a sperm bank of mixing samples. Idant Laboratories of New York City had been paid to store sperm from the woman's terminally ill husband who had semen samples put into storage in 1985 — before he began chemotherapy treatments. The woman was artificially inseminated in early 1986 and gave birth to a biracial girl in December. Her husband died three years later.

"She loves this baby like crazy," her attorney said, "but she had wanted her husband's baby."

The child, now 4, has been taunted by playmates for looking different from her mother, the attorney said.

And the woman was wrongly accused of having had an

CHEATIN' HUBBY WRITES CONFESSION ON HIS CAR!

By RICK TRACY
Special correspondent

Guilt-ridden Glenn Burton wants the world to know that he's a sleazebag who cheated on his wife — so he painted his confession all over his car.

"I have the dearest, most trusting wife a man could want and I threw it all away for a cheap affair," said the remorseful auto repairman.

Painted in big letters on both sides of his car are these sad words: "I cheated on my wife! I'm a bum! I deserve a divorce!"

The heartbroken hubby decided to punish himself for violating his wedding vows by driving his car around downtown Boise, Idaho, and in suburban shopping centers.

"I won't wash the words off until my conscience tells me to," said Glenn, 32. "I want the world to know I haven't been true to my wife."

The normally quiet mechanic married Donna, his childhood sweetheart, two years ago. They both worked and saved money for a dream house.

"Donna is a good cook, a spotless housekeeper and kept herself in shape for me. No man could want a better, more understanding wife," he said.

"Her whole life revolved around me.

"It made her happy to make me happy."

Unfaithful Glenn said he never looked at another woman until a beautiful young blonde brought her car in to be repaired.

"She was about 10 years younger than me. She flirted. I flirted back. We met for lunch the next day and an affair was born," he said.

Glenn began lying to his wife about working late as he spent time with his sexy young lover. "Passion replaced my common sense," he said.

The weeks-long affair ended when Donna caught her hubby having sex with his girlfriend in the office of his auto repair shop.

"She told me to pack my things and get out," said Glenn.

"She's filing for divorce and never wants to see me again.

"Even though I know I don't deserve this wonderful woman, I'm going to try to win her back. I didn't appreciate what I had until I lost her," Glenn said.

GUILTY Glenn Burton won't wash his car until his conscience lets him.

Kitty goes for a spin in washer

Three-year-old Patrick Gabbett thought his kitty was dirty — so he tossed it into the washing machine!

"I had just filled the washing machine with clothes and left it for a few minutes," said Patrick's mom, Carol, of Donard, Ireland. "When I came back I turned on the machine and a few minutes later I saw the terrified cat looking out through the glass door."

The door wouldn't open until the wash cycle was finished. Miraculously, George the cat survived the ordeal.

"When he came out of the washer he was wet and scared," Carol said. "But he sure was squeaky clean."

Burglar glues granny to fridge!

A sticky-fingered burglar put Edna Duke, 71, on ice when he broke into her home in Rotherham, England — and superglued her to her refrigerator. The thief made off with $35 while helpless Edna's hand was stuck fast to the fridge.

Hearing Loss Is Not A Sign Of Old Age.

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the most popular canal hearing aid in America today will be given absolutely free to anyone who sends for this free model now.

Send for this model. It will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It is not a real hearing aid and it's yours to keep free. The actual aid weighs less than an eighth of an ounce, and it fits completely into the ear canal.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. All hearing problems are not alike and some cannot be helped by a hearing aid but many can. So, send for your free model now. Thousands have already been mailed, so be sure to send your name, address and phone number today to Dept. 24023D, Beltone Electronics, 4201 West Victoria Street, Chicago, Illinois 60646.

3,000-year-old scroll predicted WW2, AIDS and the space shuttle!

By BEATRICE DEXTER
Correspondent

Hungarian archaeologists have announced a discovery off the coast of Greece that defies scientific explanation — a 3,000-year-old scroll that accurately predicts modern events.

The astonishing find was recovered recently at the site of a ruined city near the island of Thasos in the Aegean Sea, according to a statement issued by archaeologists from the University of Debrecen in Hungary.

Ancient document found in ruins of Greek city

It contains forecasts of the future which mention World Wars 1 and 2, the space shuttle and a worldwide epidemic of AIDS.

"The details of these predictions and their accuracy were, to say the least, surprising," the report said.

Dr. Andras Bonis and a colleague, Dr. Jozsef Toms, headed a team of 14 underwater archaeologists who mapped and studied the ruins of an ancient Greek city called Serados, a shipping center that perished during an earthquake about 1014 B.C.

The time capsule — a ceramic box about 14 inches long and 6 inches wide — was found in the rubble of a temple at the site. It had been sealed with a tar-like resin and had remained watertight through the centuries.

"The box contained the temple seals and various documents, including a map of Serados," Dr. Bonis said. "It also included a two-page prophecy in an ancient script.

"Our experts have only recently deciphered the script, and the contents are frankly astounding."

The prophecies, believed to be the work of an oracle in predynastic Persia, comprise an uncannily accurate list of predictions, including the earthquake which destroyed Serados and the eventual decline of Greek civilization.

It predicted the rise of the Roman Empire, the first World War, World War 2 and the use of nuclear weapons.

"It says, 'Man will live among the stars and return in a chariot of fire' — something we believe is an allusion to the space shuttle," said Dr. Bonis.

"The dates provided would pin that prediction to about 1980, which would correlate with the U.S. space shuttle.

"There follows a very specific allusion to an AIDS-like epidemic and the famine in Ethiopia."

The prophecies continue up to the current time — and then, inexplicably, stop.

"It's almost as if the author expected the world to end at the end of the 20th century," said Dr. Bonis.

Naming your baby is as easy as A-B-C, says study

When it comes to naming babies, people are more casual than calculating.

A new study reveals that a whopping 87 percent of new parents in 1990 picked the name of their new baby by simply going through the alphabet.

Only 23 percent named their kid for a relative and 8 percent chose a name because they liked the way it sounded. The remaining 2 percent picked the name at random.

"Most parents simply start with the A's and think of all the A names they can," says the study coordinator.

Top U.S. psychic reveals . . .

HOW YOU CAN HAVE A LIFE-AFTER-DEATH EXPERIENCE — TODAY

FAMED psychic Linda Georgian says anyone can visit the spirit world once they know how to do it.

. . . & live to tell about it!

By BEATRICE DEXTER
Special to The NEWS

You can have a life-after-death experience, says America's hottest new psychic Linda Georgian — and you don't have to die to do it!

Follow these simple instructions and you can make your soul actually leave your body, travel through the spirit world and see what heaven is really like, according to the famed Fort Lauderdale, Fla., author and medium.

"We can go into the next dimension if we want to and come back while we are still alive and healthy," she told The NEWS in an exclusive interview. "We can do this deliberately, without any danger.

"The experience can help us lose the fear of death and strengthen our spiritual beliefs. It can make us feel more alive, more sensitive to others and the world around us. It can make us more loving, more positive and stronger psychologically."

The pretty brunette psychic says that anyone can travel to the Other Side in spirit form, by following these simple steps:

● Prepare yourself mentally: Learn as much as you can about life-after-death experiences, then decide whether you really want to make the spiritual journey. Commit yourself and understand that you may have to make many, many attempts before you succeed in your desire.

● Overcome your fears: It's normal to be afraid of losing oneself. You can and will get back to your body, but you must have faith. Your guardian angels or departed loved ones will take care of you.

● Relax: Find a quiet place where you won't be interrupted, loosen your clothing and lie down in a comfortable position. Blank out your mind.

● Use self-hypnosis: Tell yourself, "I am calm, I am looking forward to this, I'm in control." Breathe deeply, relaxing more each time you exhale. Go into a passive state in which you are listening, receiving, ready to be free.

● Visualize your goal: See yourself relaxed, calm and happy. Then see yourself floating over your body. Visualize an angel guiding you by the hand. Picture your dead loved ones, feel the happy, euphoric feelings. Picture in vivid detail every part of the journey to heaven.

● Concentrate: Channel all your mental energies on the process of visualization. At each stage of your transition to the spirit world, pour everything into the effort.

● Use all your spiritual powers: Pray as you strive to move toward the light. Tell yourself your angels are with you, helping you. Ask for the white light to surround you. Say, "I want to do this."

With practice, these techniques can result in fantastic adventures in spiritual travel, says Linda, who wrote If You Really Want To Do It Right, a book that tells you how to develop psychic abilities.

She'd like to hear your life-after-death experiences.

Write her at P.O. Box 302, Miami, Fla. 33256, to share your story or order her book ($12.95 plus $2.00 shipping).

Chimps CAN recall the past!

Scientists had to change their thinking when a chimp they said understands the English language also showed he can recall past events.

When scientists at the Georgia State Language Research Center in Atlanta took the chimp's mother away, 10-year-old Kanzi searched for her in several places — including a spot where he had once found her hiding! To ease his worry about her safety, he was shown a videotape showing she was okay. And Kanzi demanded to see it again and again, until he was satisfied she was safe.

It had been generally thought that chimps could only deal with the present.

Blind preacher reads with his glass eye!

THE REV. Ronald Coyne tapes his good eye shut and reads with his glass eye.

By PETER STEARNS
Special to The NEWS

The Rev. Ronald Coyne can read anything that's put in front of him — with his glass eye!

"It's a miracle of the Lord Jesus Christ and a testimony of HIS power," Preacher Coyne, an interdenominational minister from Tulsa, Okla., told The NEWS.

. . . and he can pop it out and read with the empty socket

"The Lord is a mystery. Men cannot understand HIM. I often wonder why He gave this miracle to me instead of all the other people who need to be healed.

"In fact, the first thing I'm going to ask when I get to heaven is: 'Why me, Lord? Why me?' "

Rev. Coyne was a boy of 7 when a strip of razor-sharp baling wire slashed his right eye, which was damaged so badly it had to be surgically removed by doctors.

A few months later his mother took him to a religious revival.

While he was there, evangelist Daisy Gallock of Odessa, Tex., prayed for a miracle that incredibly allowed the boy to see perfectly through his glass eye.

The 49-year-old preacher now travels 200,000 miles a year to demonstrate his amazing ability to see and read with it.

During the demonstrations his good eye is taped shut.

He reckons that thousands of people who have seen the miracle have been brought closer to Christ.

"It's an abnormal thing that goes against everything that is taught by medical science," said Rev. Coyne.

"If a doctor who's a Christian sees me read with the glass eye, he'll say it's 'a miracle of God.'

"If a doctor who isn't a Christian sees me read he will say, 'The man really is reading — just don't give me any of that God stuff.' "

Skeptics might think that Rev. Coyne simply memorized the words of books and pretends to read with his glass eye.

In fact, he asks audiences to give him all kinds of printed material that he's never seen before — and then reads it.

"Give me something I couldn't possibly have seen before," he said during an exhibition in Berkeley, Calif.

Newspaper reporters and an audience of hundreds then watched in stunned silence as he borrowed a Police Activities League membership card from a stranger and read every word — including the fine print.

He also popped out the glass eye and continued to read with the empty socket.

"Nobody can understand it. Some people try to fight it. But everybody agrees that they've never seen anything like it," said Rev. Coyne.

"I'd say 99 percent of them accept it as the divine miracle that it really is."

How to feed a crowd

Planning a big party? It might help to know how to "Guestimate" the amount of food you'll need.

Here's a handy guide for feeding a crowd:

Hamburger: 5 pounds for 10 people, 7 pounds for 25, 28 pounds for 100;

Chicken: 10 pounds for 10 people, 16 pounds for 25, 65 pounds for 100;

Potato salad: 2 quarts feeds 10; 4½ quarts feeds 25; 18 quarts (4½ gallons) feeds 100.

Fatso eats so much her gut explodes

A 420-pound woman who lost 60 pounds on a crash diet got hungry and ate herself to death during a three-day feeding frenzy that included a dozen baked chickens — and a whole roast pig!

"Her stomach stretched until it popped and she bled to death beside the kitchen table," Dr. Giuseppe Montanelli, Maria Cavadini's physician, told reporters in Como, Italy.

"She had been doing so well on her diet, too. I guess that something just snapped and she couldn't take it anymore. She actually had her teeth clamped around a turkey leg when we found her.

"You could have fed a kennel full of dogs with the bones and scraps she left on the table."

By sorting through those scraps and analyzing the food ball that blew open her stomach, Dr. Montanelli determined that the 34-year-old woman had eaten:

- 12 chickens.
- A roast piglet.
- Six dozen doughnuts, two bags of pastries and at least two cakes.
- Three gallons of orange juice.
- 36 eggs.
- Six pounds of assorted Swiss chocolates.
- Eight loaves of bread.
- Nine T-bone steaks.
- 28 hamburgers.
- Four pounds of pork sausage.
- Two bottles of red wine and a quart of vodka.
- A half-pound box of after-dinner mints.
- One and a half turkey legs.

"I found her myself when she didn't show up for an appointment — and I might add that the spectacle in her kitchen was one hell of a horrible sight to see."

FED UP: Maria Cavadini quit her diet with a vengeance and ate and ate and ate . . .

By REBECCA SPALDING
Correspondent

Miss Cavadini had fought a losing war against fat for most of her life, said the doctor.

"Her death really came as a blow to me," he continued. "For once in her life she was really making progress with her diet.

"A few more months and she might even have been pleasant to look at."

New high-tech melon thumper!

Super technology has come up with a Space Age gizmo designed to make life a little easier for America's farmers — a battery-operated, computer-aided melon thumper!

Yup! Oklahoma State University scientists Marvin Stone and Mark Parabee developed the device, which thumps a melon and compares its vibrations to those of a ripe melon previously keyed into a computer program.

Potion cures impotence

Retired cabbie Cirilo Marcos devised a special potion to cure his arthritis — and the concoction turned the ailing old-timer into a whoopee-making superstud.

Cirilo, 85, said he was feeling too old and tired to cut the mustard until he started chugging his sticky mixture of herbs and honey. Now his arthritis pains have vanished and he's making love five times a night.

BURNED OUT?

Here's how to put the spark back in your life!

LEARN how to relax with great tips from a top psychologist.

By REBECCA SPALDING
Correspondent

Are you a victim of burnout? You can rekindle your zest for life by following a few easy tips, says a top psychologist.

"People in all walks of life can suffer burnout," declared Dr. W. Beryl West.

Burnout is the result of too much stress, the expert explained. Among the signs of this widespread disorder are physical and emotional exhaustion, irritability, depression, anger, sleeplessness, disillusionment, a tendency to withdraw from people and a feeling that you're not doing your best.

Here are Dr. West's tips to battle burnout:

● Take a mini-vacation. Go camping, run on a beach, or simply spend a weekend at a nearby hotel. "The idea is just to get away from it all."

● Give a hug, get a hug. Hugging is a natural way to get back in touch with others. We all respond to the reassuring feeling of being held close. "If you don't have anyone to hug, hug your dog, cat — or even a stuffed animal!" Dr. West advised.

● Get enough sleep. Make your bedroom comfortable so you'll sleep well. Keep it at just the right temperature. Plump up the pillows and keep your bed linens refreshingly clean.

● Give up any grudges that you are holding. "Carrying around a sack of grudges can be a heavy load, and can cost you a great deal of emotional energy," said Dr. West. Forgive individuals for their offenses against you — and don't forget to forgive yourself for past misdeeds.

● Make one room in your house "your place." It could be a porch, den, or guest room. Make it temporarily off-limits to everyone else, then use it to enjoy music, TV, reading or just plain relaxing.

● Do something you loved to do as a child. Fly a kite, roll in the grass, or enjoy a cookie that reminds you of the ones Mom or Grandma used to bake.

Other experts emphasize the importance of balanced meals. This doesn't mean going on a starvation diet. Rather, build low-fat meals around fruits, vegetables and grains such as rice and pasta. These foods are healthful and filling as well as pleasing to the eye.

Avoid rich, sugary, fatty foods. While satisfying at first, they settle heavily in the stomach and make you feel sleepy and unenergetic.

But nutritious foods will leave you raring to go and enjoy yourself.

Dr. West concluded: "Pay attention to these tips to battle burnout and you'll rekindle your fire for life."

Falling down on the job

Referee Bob Spindler likes to get close to the action — but this time he was in the wrong place at the right time. When high school wrestlers Joe Rosario of Passaic, N.J., and Piero Astros of Manchester fell to the floor, Spindler leaped in to call a foul, got knocked off his feet and headed toward the deck. But he managed to sound his whistle on the way down.

Armed conflict

Have you ever been in an "elbow war" with the jerk sitting next to you on an airplane?

The odds are 5 to 1 that if one passenger is male and the other is female, the man will take over the armrest even if the woman is bigger.

During an airport interview a man was asked why this happens.

"Because I feel I deserve to have it," he said. "She doesn't."

Her dad said he'd kill him!

Young lovers hide in attic for 17 years!

Two eloping lovers lived like hermits in a dingy attic for 17 grueling years because they were terrified of what their tyrannical parents would do to them.

Fabio Granzotto was 16 and Gina Palumbo 15 when they ran away from their homes near Cosenza, Italy, to get married against the wishes of their domineering families.

But the frightened lovebirds were forced into hiding before they could marry when Gina's rich and powerful father vowed to have Fabio shot on sight.

They lived like dogs — unaware father had died

The young couple sneaked into the attic of an abandoned building 26 miles from Cosenza and there they lived like two scared rats for 17 years afraid to venture out.

Their secret hideout was uncovered two months ago when a wrecking crew showed up to demolish the dilapidated old building.

"Thank God our ordeal is over," Gina sobbed. "We have lived like animals and grown old much before our time. And all because we loved each other."

In an interview with the newspaper, La Notte, Fabio said they lived off the land, eating berries and fruit, fishing in nearby streams and hunting small game.

The couple never left their attic prison during the daytime.

"Being seen by anyone could have meant the end for us. My father was an influential man who always got what he wanted," said Gina.

Gina broke into tears when she was reunited with her mother and brothers after 17 lonely years. But her father wasn't there to meet her.

"You have nothing to fear from your father, my dear," said Gina's mother.

"He died less than a year after he chased you into hiding."

Weed may cure AIDS!

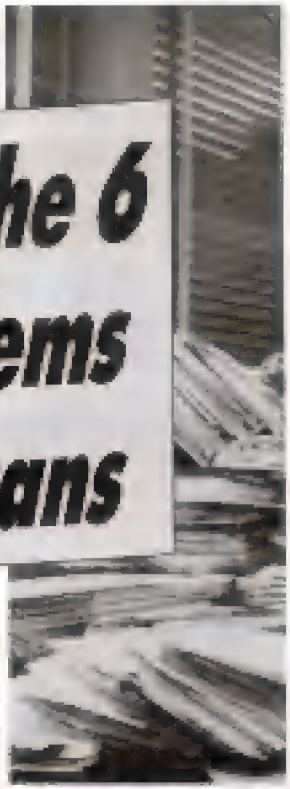
Advice columnist Ann Landers tells . . .

How to solve the 6 biggest problems facing Americans



Americans faced three major problems in their daily lives 30 years ago — but that list has grown to six, reveals famed advice columnist Ann Landers.

Loneliness is still No. 1

However, she says loneliness is still the No. 1 problem — just as it was in 1955 when she first began writing her column.

"In the mid-1950s, most of my mail from readers was about loneliness, premarital sex and interfaith marriage, in that order," Ann said.

"But times and attitudes have changed dramatically in the past three decades.

"Today the major problems, in order, are: Loneliness, infidelity, alcohol abuse, drug abuse, divorce and money troubles."

Here is what Ann says about today's six major personal problems:

LONELINESS

"This is still the biggest bulk of my mail.

"The big difference is now I get letters not only from lonely women, but also men and even children.

"The cause of this loneliness? Major communication problems between husbands and wives, parents and children, brothers and sisters. Interpersonal relationships are the key to our happiness — but people just can't bring themselves to tell their loved ones how they feel.

"Husbands and wives go to work and talk to others, but seldom talk to each other. Couples desperately need to set aside time to talk, to express exactly how they feel about the relationship and say what's bothering them. This lack of communication extends to parents and their children. Family members are all so busy living their individual lives that they forget they're a team that should be working together.

"Parents need to be tougher on their kids. They need to take control again and leave fewer important decisions to the children.

"When you make a decision, stop worrying about what your child might think — if you believe it's the right decision, have the courage to follow through with it."

INFIDELITY

"Cheating in a marriage is a big problem I'm hearing about — far more than three decades ago. And it's not only men but women who are having extramarital affairs.

"Women now have far more opportunities to meet men outside the home because there are more women in the job force.

"Working closely together in the office often leads to a romantic relationship outside it.

COLUMNIST Ann Landers says today's Americans face different problems than they

ANN'S readers send her thousands of letters each week.

Of course people need to work closely, but husbands and wives should remind themselves that their marriage comes first. They should remain committed to each other despite temptations."

ALCOHOL ABUSE

"This is the source of many family conflicts. I can't tell you how many letters I get from families who've been torn apart and scarred by alcohol.

"People have all types of personality changes when they drink — and these changes usually aren't for the better.

"Of course, there were people with drinking problems in the 1950s, but I didn't get much mail about it.

"People kept their boozing a secret because alcoholism was considered a shameful character flaw.

"Today, people are much more willing to discuss this problem because now alcoholism is seen for what it really is — a disease that can be treated and cured.

"I've never said that it's bad to have a cocktail — but today's society feels that if one is good, two is better. If you feel the need to relax after a strenuous day, it's better to get some form of exercise, read or get involved in a worthwhile community project than to sit in your living room and try to relax by drinking. For the past 30 years I've been a strong supporter of Alcoholics Anonymous. AA invariably succeeds after everything else has failed.

"If you know someone who has a drinking problem, I strongly suggest you encourage them to enter the AA program."

DRUG ABUSE

"Drugs — like alcohol — change a person's personality. They're a major problem today, especially among our youth.

"The current campaign against drugs in our schools is a step in the right direction, but it's just a beginning. Parents need to be aware that help begins at home.

"They need to educate their children about the dangers of drug abuse.

"And parents who think they themselves aren't drug users simply because they're taking prescription drugs are sadly mistaken."

DIVORCE

"One out of every two marriages ends in divorce today — and divorce is a major cause of stress.

"I receive hundreds of letters from young people who are confused about where their commitments lie after their parents divorces.

"Should they love mother or father more? Should they live with mother or father? Should they visit mother or father? Should they spend holidays with mother or father? Should they buy gifts for mother or father?

"Children suffer emotional disaster when their parents divorce. But even if a marriage appears beyond repair, I almost always suggest counseling. Perhaps the couple will be able to work out their problems after all."

MONEY TROUBLES

"Every family has financial problems at some point. But even though I do get lots of letters about this I've found that, surprisingly, the pressure caused by lack of funds is the last of the six major problems to divide a family today. People seem to cope better with money shortages than with other problems in their lives, such as alcohol and drug abuse."

Although any of these six problems can be devastating, Ann noted that today there are many more places to turn for help than existed in the 1950s.

"Back then, about the only way people could seek advice and counsel was to talk to their clergyman or their doctor, or write to me.

"Today there are numerous places for them to turn. And often all they need is some direction — which is what I give them.

"Our society has changed drastically — and even though there are more problems and

Bees attack crash victims

ISPARTA, Turkey — Seventeen people were killed and 39 more injured when a bus collided with a truck that was carrying thousands of sting-crazy bees!

The enraged insects escaped from their cages and swarmed over the injured and dying, hampering rescue efforts.

"It was a horrifying sight," said Fire Captain Ahmet Yuces.

"Grown men were screaming and crying like babies and women and children were begging for help.

"It was like being in hell. I've never seen human suffering on that scale — not even in war."

One of the survivors was Kemel Cakir, who miraculously escaped serious injury by covering himself with a piece of filthy burlap that he found on the floor of the wrecked bus.

"The windows were broken in the crash and the first thing I thought was, 'The bees will sting me to death!' " said Cakir, 28.

"I wanted to get out and run, but I was trapped in the bus. By that time, there were bees swarming all over the place.

"I huddled down on the floor and pulled the burlap over me and prayed they wouldn't get me. It's a miracle they left me alone."

ANGRY bees escaped from cages and attacked victims of a bus accident in Turkey.

"IT'S taken me almost a lifetime to finally understand and forgive my mother — and myself."

New Mexico man I was

By SUSAN JIMISON
Staff writer

Erik Eriksson learned about sex at his mother's knee — because she seduced him when he was just 11 years old!

Now, 59 years later, the Las Cruces, N.M., man is speaking out against sexual abuse of children, and driving home the message that women, too, can commit the shocking crime.

"There are lots of men in this country who were abused by their mothers or other women they were close to when they were children," says Eriksson, 70, a retired technical writer. "The abuse is devastating for them, just as it was for me.

"My mother was emotionally disturbed, troubled. I was the person closest to her and it was an attempt to keep me. It's taken me almost a lifetime to finally understand and forgive my mother — and myself."

Eriksson vividly recalls his first introduction to sex when he was just a child of 11. His father had died not long before and he and his small brother lived alone with his pretty young mom, Elsa, in Brooklyn, N.Y.

One day Erik was caught playing "doctor" with a neighbor girl and his angry mother decided to give him an anatomy lesson. But the lesson turned out to be much more than just talk. The two undressed and fondled one another and eventually Erik lost his virginity.

"When it was over, she threatened me: 'Don't tell anyone. We could go to jail for this,' " Erik recalls. "I believed her. She was my mother.

"After that there was frequent sex. I wasn't horseduced by my own mother — in 1932!

ing realization that he and his mother were doing something wicked eventually drove Erik out of his home. He married early — at the age of 18 — and left to live with his new bride.

"I tried to hide my marriage from my mother and she was furious when she found out," he says.

"She said, 'I was going to make a nice home for you and me.'

"Then it became sickeningly clear to me. She wanted me — her own son — to be her husband! I'd escaped and I felt weak with relief."

When Eriksson's wife died a few years later Elsa tried once again to enter her son's life, but the young man was strong enough to resist her.

WITH his third wife Anne, Erik has found happiness at last.

Before long Eriksson married again. He became a pilot and a technical writer, fathered two sons and had a happy marriage.

But he never told anyone the truth about his relationship with his mother — and the ugly secret cast a shadow over his life.

Eriksson eventually stopped visiting or calling his mother, but the damage from their incestuous relationship lingered. When she died he felt relieved, but he couldn't shake his shame and guilt.

After the death of his second wife, he became an alcoholic.

"Alcohol helped me numb my heart so I could bury the memories that tortured me," he says.

"After four years, I joined Alcoholics Anonymous. I stopped drinking and became part of a support group for incest survivors."

There, Eriksson met his present wife Anne and found peace at last. After a while, he even learned to forgive the woman who had abused him. "It's been a long and excruciating process, but I have learned how to give and receive love and I'm more content than I've ever been," the incest victim says. "And my message to other abuse victims is that they can find peace, too.

"Get into a group if you can. Or free yourself by talking it out with other people who've had the same background. There is always a light at the end of the tunnel and you can find it, just as I did."

LITTLE Erik was 11 when he lost his virginity to his mom Elsa. She made him promise not to tell anyone.

He was only 11 when she forced him to have sex with her
